WEATHER PROBABILITIES-Octo. 14, 1878 .--For the Middle Atlantic States warmer northeast to southeast winds, stationary barometer, clear or hazy weather.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE. - The petition for a writ of habeas corpus of John L. Hipkins, charged with being an accisiony to the forgery to a check of the name of Mrs. Mary G. Quinby, of Loudoun county, by Wm. Lee, and the al tering and passing the same to Messes. Kelly & Carr, greeery merchants of this city, came up for hearing before Judge E. M. Lowe, in vacation, Saturday evening, at 5 o'clock, as mentioned in the Gazette of that day, Mr. Ed mund Burke representing the accused. The evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution failed to establish any oriminality on the part of Hipkins, either before or after the forgery. After argument by counsel, Judge Lowe hold that, although a mistake had been made in the form of the commitment, yet he thought there was sufficient in it to justy the jailor in holding the accused under it, and would not discharge him on that ground alone, but inasmuch as the evidence wholly failed to show an offence, he di-charged the accused upon his own raeognizance, without requiring surety for his appearance, and Hipkins, who is a mere youth, being only about 17 years of age, left on the 7 o'clock train for his home in Washington, after receiving an impressive admonition from the Judge as to the consequences inevitably to result from evil associations.

THE BUELL FAMILY. - The Buell family, consisting of three of the plainest, prettiest and most modest young ladies rarely met met with among those whose life-work calls them constantly before the public, accompanied by their father, who sang in the Methodist Episcopal Church Friday night last, were listen ened to again last night in the same Church to build up this portion of the State more Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia. The desire of the old colored man, tired of the hypocrisy of the world, and the brethren who had been baptized, to walk the golden streets, to "talk wid de angels," to meet his mother and be with Jesus, took right hold of the audience. Their singing last night is spoken of in the highest terms.

ROBBERY AND ATTEMPTED ARSON.-Oa Saturday night, at an early hour, a daughter of Mr. J. II. DaVaugho, who lives on King street, near Pitt, on going to her room, found it full of smoke. She at once gave the alarm to the rest of the family, who were sitting in a lower room, and, when a light was brought, it was found that the bureau was on fire. The robberg was a very bold one, as the thief, in order to reach the sleeping room, had to pass the glass door of the dining room, where all of the family were sitting. The accidental entrance of the young lady to her room doubtless prevented further robbery and a serious fire. There is no clue to the thief.

> THE FAIR .- The London Mirror says of our late Fair :- "There were some very hand some animals, horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, on exhibition. The accumulation of farming implements was specially full and complete. But the "main building" was the chief attrac tion of the place, and embodied the glory of the Fair. The building was filled with almost every description of articles that the imagination could suggest-arranged with exquisite taste, and throwing an air of enchantment around the whole scene, that doubtless suggested to many visitors recollections of the grand Centennial Exposition of a year or two age. Fruits, flowers and evergreees, the products of the surrounding country, were very pretty.
